Welcome To Bowling Green

It is a great pleasure to welcome all "Falcon Fans" to this 1978 football season. And the welcome mat is also out for our visitors — Grand Valley State, Kent State, Central Michigan, Ball State and Ohio University.

Saturday afternoon in America means just one thing — exciting, colorful intercollegiate football. This season at Bowling Green should provide a stadium full of thrills. With a quarterback, Mike Wright, who is a threat to either run or throw, and one of the finest receivers in the country in Jeff Groth, the Falcons should put plenty of points up on the board. The defense will be young and aggressive.

The Mid-American Conference is known for its balance. With six new head coaches in the league, the championship appears to be up for grabs. And as is most often the case, the MAC Championship will probably be decided on the last day of conference play.

Add to this the music of a great Falcon Marching Band, some special promotions for fans of all ages, Freddy Falcon and the cheerleaders, and you have the ingredients for five outstanding Saturday afternoons.

Come to the game early and join the many fans who are rapidly making "tailgating" a tradition at Bowling Green. After the game take the time to stroll the campus and observe its beauty, including the two newest facilities, the Student Recreation Center and the School of Musical Arts Center.

After the day is complete, we hope you will agree that one of the best ways to spend a fall afternoon is on the campus of Bowling Green State University.

Wottle Striving For Successful Coaching Career

by Steve Shutt

He has a secure job in a field that he loves.

He has a wonderful wife and son.

He has a floppy old golf cap he used to wear.

He has an Olympic gold medal.

"He" is Dave Wottle, a Bowling Green State University graduate and winner of the 800-meter run at the 1972 Olympic Games. During that summer, Dave Wottle became a household name for his come-from-behind effort that won the Olympic Gold.

Now he's a coach at a small West Virginia college, trying to build a winning program in track and cross-country. He still is well-known throughout the United States, but gone are the days of being dogged by reporters for hours and days on end.

Wottle grew up in Canton and attended Canton Lincoln High School where he was only a mediocre runner by his own account. In his first mile run at Bowling Green Wottle turned in a less than Olympic caliber 4:26.5 in a freshman meet at the University of Michigan. But under the coaching of Mel Brodt, he rapidly developed into one of Bowling Green's best runners along with teammate Sid Sink.

Less than a year after his Michigan debut, Dave turned in a meet, varsity and fieldhouse record of 4:07.5 for the mile at the Western Michigan relays. At the NCAA Indoor Championships, he placed fourth with a 4:06.5 clocking.

In the spring of 1970 Wottle just missed going under 4-minutes with a 4:00.1 and a second place finish to Marty Liquori in the NCAA outdoor mile. Wottle was the All-Ohio champion in the mile and 880-yard run that year.

The fall of 1970 brought physical problems. Wottle suffered stress fractures of both ankles and in each case tried to return too quickly. Subsequently, he was red-shirted for the track season and did not run competitively until the fall of 1971. But from then on it was one win after another.

Wottle was the Mid-American Conference champ in the 880 and mile for three years and collected All-America honors for cross-country, track and indoor track, finishing his career as a seven-time All-America selection.

In the spring of 1972, Dave won the NCAA 1500-meters and the AAU 800-meters. And that summer, Wottle earned himself a place on the United States Olympic squad by tying the world record in the 800 meters at the Olympic Trials in Eugene, Oregon.

Shortly after the Trials, Wottle was off to Munich with new wife, Jan, and a shot at the Olympics. On August 2, 1972, Dave Wottle ran a 1:45.89 and came from way back in the pack to nip a tumbling Yevgeny Arzhanov of the Soviet Union at the wire for the gold medal in the 800-meters.

Within days, kids across the country were running in track meets with golf caps. "Wottle-mania" had caught on.

Wottle no longer runs. Now it's hitting golf balls and swinging at tennis balls which keep him occupied when he's not coaching. His present job is head track and cross-country coach at Bethany College. He is also working in college administration as the assistant admissions director.

It took a lot of hard work on Wottle's part to get to Munich and win the gold medal. Building Bethany into a respectable track power is also a formidable task and when it comes to recruiting you'd think the kids would come running to Wottle's door. But that's not the case.

"They sure don't come running to me," said Wottle during a recent interview. "Actually, being an Olympic champ is only a foot in the door because if the kids don't like Bethany or if Bethany doesn't offer the curriculum they want, they won't come. But when I write the initial contact letter they'll say 'Wow, Dave Wottle is interested in me, he was in the Olympics, he's a gold medalist, I'll look into Bethany College'. Then the college will sell itself. And we've had an excellent recruiting year. We have 23 freshmen recruits and I would match that with any school in the nation as far as freshmen go."

"I'm at the point where I'm going to have to make a decision what I want to go into, as far as coaching or college administration," said Wottle. "I enjoy coaching more than the administration, but money-wise, administration is more lucrative in the long run."

"I would love to be a successful coach and that's what I'm striving for now" said Wottle as he enters his second year at Bethany. "I have to establish myself as a successful coach."

Motivation to continue training is a problem with some athletes. Such was the case at times for Dave. "I never really enjoyed training for track, especially the 6:30 in the morning runs. But we had good fellowship among the runners such that we were almost like brothers and that kept me going," Wottle stated. That same "camaraderie" is something that Wottle the coach would like to instill into his team at Bethany. "Especially with 23 freshmen and six sophomores, we're going to be a very young team. We can win if we have that feeling of friendship."

As a result of the training and fellowship experienced by Wottle, he was able to make his way to the 1972 Olympic Trials. Dave was asked if he always thought he would make it to the Olympics.

"I never really did (set my sights on a gold medal). I never thought I was world class caliber until I got to the Olympic Trials. Then I thought, 'I can win a gold medal' but that was just a month and a half before the Olympics."

Wottle was asked if he would have developed into the fine runner he was if he had attended another institution. "No, I think this was the best spot for me. I might have done decent somewhere else but for me, the emotional state I was in; I was very immature and introverted. Bowling Green, with the guys we had here, was just right for me as a runner."

Wottle almost makes it look too easy as he outdistances seven other runners in the Mid-American Conference Championships as a BG undergraduate. The former Olympian won four MAC and NCAA championships and was a member of a distance medley relay which won an NCAA title. Wottle still holds BG records in both the mile and half-mile. His Bethany College runners have shown much improvement this year and figure to challenge for the Presidents' Athletic Conference championship today at Allegheny College.

Coach Denny Stolz

Denny Stolz, who helped revitalize the football program at Alma College and Michigan State, is currently in his second year as head coach at Bowling Green.

The former Big Ten Coach-of-the-Year has compiled a solid 58-36-1 record as head coach on the college level for a winning percentage of .617. Although the Falcons recorded a 5-7 mark in 1977, a pair of sound recruiting campaigns promise to brighten the outlook for the Falcons for this season and the future.

Before joining the Falcon staff, Stolz had served as head coach at Michigan State from 1973-75. He led the Spartans to an impressive 19-13-1 record which was the only winning record produced among Big Ten coaches other than Woody Hayes and Bo Schembechler.

Stolz started his rebuilding program at Michigan State with a 5-6 record in 1973, but a year later he directed the Spartans to a 7-3-1 mark for the best record at MSU since 1966. The team was 6-1-1 in conference play and only a tie with Illinois kept it out of the title picture. His efforts earned him coaching plaudits from the Big Ten and the Spartans finished in 12th place in the AP poll and 18th in the UPI ratings. A 16-13 win over Ohio State highlighted the campaign as the Buckeyes were ranked number one at the time.

A year later, Stolz led State to a 7-4 record and a third place Big Ten finish. Highlight of the 1975 season was a 10-3 upset of Notre Dame.

His coaching success earned him a spot as head coach of the North team in the 1976 All-American Bowl in Tampa, and he directed his team to a win over a South squad.

Stolz began his coaching career with the Spartans as an assistant to Duffy Daugherty in 1971. As defensive coordinator, his units ranked second and third in the league in total defense.

Prior to joining Daugherty, Stolz was head coach at Alma College from 1965-70. Taking over a team that had won just three games in four years, he molded Alma into a Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) power. During his six-year tenure, his teams won three MIAA titles, compiled an 18-game win streak and were unbeaten in 1967 and 1968.

A graduate of Alma and a native of Lansing, Mich., Stolz got his start in coaching at Haslett High School where he had a nine-year record of 40-13-3 from 1955-63. He also spent a year as defensive coordinator at Lansing Eastern High School in 1964.

He earned his bachelor's degree from Alma in 1955 and a master's from MSU in 1960. He and his wife, Cena, are the parent's of a son, Doak, 18, and daughters, Dawn, 17, and Denise, 10.

The Coaching Staff

CHARLIE BAGGETT, a 1975 Michigan State graduate, will work with the Falcon defense and handle the defensive ends. Charlie was a member of the Bowling Green staff in 1977, serving on a part-time basis in several areas, including working with the offensive backs. He holds the Michigan State career total offense record of 4,041 yards set during the 1973-75 season. A co-captain in 1975, Baggett also earned MVP honors once during his career and was also selected to play in the All-American Bowl which he participated in 1976. Baggett, who holds a degree in economics and food management, is also a former All-Big Ten choice at quarterback and stands second in Spartan career passing.

STEVE BECKHOLT is starting his second year with the Bowling Green staff and will once again serve as the Falcons' defensive coordinator. Another Michigan State graduate (1971), Beckholt previously served as defensive coordinator at Albion (Mich.) College before coming to Bowling Green. In his final season at Albion, Beckholt's defense helped the team to a 9-0 record and the top spot in defensive statistics among Division III schools in the country. He was a two-year letterman at linebacker for Western Michigan before transferring to Michigan State. Beckholt also holds a master's degree from Central Michigan University.

CHARLIE BUTLER was Stolz's offensive line coach at Michigan State from 1973-75 and will serve in the same capacity at Bowling Green in addition to being the administrative assistant to the head coach. A 1961 graduate of Middle Tennessee State, Butler was an offensive guard and linebacker in college and later served on the Blue Raiders' coaching staff from 1966-71. He later moved on to Colorado State before joining Stolz at Michigan State in 1973. Butler was also an outstanding high school coach in Tennessee, leading Hendersonville High School to a pair of bowl games in the state. He holds a master's degree from Middle Tennessee.

JIM HEACOCK is starting his first year with the BG staff after previously serving in various facets of the Bowling Green program. A 1970 graduate of Muskingum (O.) College, Heacock was a part-time member of the Falcon staff in 1972-73 as a graduate assistant. Heacock earned four letters at Muskingum and was chosen All-OHIO as a defensive back for three years. Following graduation he played for two seasons with the Green Bay Packers and Cincinnati Bengals (1970-71) before coming to Bowling Green. Heacock returned to Muskingum in 1973 and served as head track coach and assistant football coach until rejoining the Falcon staff this year.

GARY PINKEL, a former standout at Kent State, will once again handle the tight ends and receivers for the Falcons. Pinkel earned All-MAC honors at Kent State in 1972 and 1973 and was also accorded honorable mention All-America honors as a senior. He ranks second on the Golden Flashes' all-time career receiving list and he had a tryout with Pittsburgh following his career there. Got his start in coaching as a student coach at Kent State under Don James before spending two years with James on the University of Washington staff. Was a team captain in 1973 and was also chosen as Kent's MVP.

MIKE RASMUSSEN is another of the Bowling Green coaches who joined Denny Stolz in his first season in 1977. Rasmussen, who was the starting quarterback at Michigan State in 1971 and 1972, has a very diverse coaching background, having served as an assistant coach at Chico (Calif.) State and the University of Hawaii. He served as the offensive coordinator at Hawaii before joining the Falcon staff last fall. During his career at Michigan State, Rasmussen established himself as one of the top passers in Spartan history. A former junior college All-America at Fresno City College, Rasmussen will coach the offensive backs and also serve as the offensive coordinator.

Jim Mitolo: A Special Kind of Person

Jim Mitolo is not what you would call your average football player. He is a two-year letterman and starter for the Falcons at middle guard and currently is second on the team in tackles. But he also brings joy to the lives of the special children he works with in his spare time.

Mitolo is a special education and elementary education major as well as a top-notch middle guard for the Falcons. And through his major, Jim does work with retarded children in and around Bowling Green.

"Primarily my work has been in Wauseon with a little girl named Cathy. But I've also done some teaching in Bowling Green's school system," said

Mitolo. "I like children and the chance to be able to help them."

Until a few weeks ago, it appeared the Bowling Green defense also needed a little help. The offense was producing the yards and points, but the defense wasn't getting it all together. But the Miami game in Oxford two weeks ago was a high point for the Falcon defenders as they came up with their best performance of the season against the Redskins.

"We're coming around," said Mitolo. "It's just a process of having the defense grow and mature and play together."

Prior to last week's contest with Central Michigan, Mitolo was second on the Bowling Green team with 75 tackles, second only to linebacker Mike Callesen. Though small for a lineman, Mitolo makes up for it with speed (fastest lineman on the team), strength and a willingness to hit. Last year Mitolo was seventh on the team in tackles, but he is on a pace this season that will put him among the Falcon leaders.

Jim picked Bowling Green three years ago over West Point and 11 other schools that offered him a scholarship to play football.

"I liked the people involved with the school," Mitolo said. "I liked being around them and associating with them."

Jim came to Bowling Green as an All-State high school lineman and after being named the UPI Class AA Lineman-of-the Year. And as then-coach Don Nehlen said, "I bet you all the sausage in Youngstown that Mitolo is going to be a fine college football player."

And he has. After spending two years in a back up role to all Mid-American Conference middle guard Dave Brown, Mitolo moved into the starting spot last fall and has made the most of his playing time since then.

This season Mitolo is playing between defensive tackles Ed Holmes and Todd Gates with John Fitzpatrick, Tim Ross and Dan Gatta all seeing duty as outside linebackers.

The loss to Miami was a crucial one for the Falcons as it eliminated them from any hopes of a league title in '78. But several important games remain on the Falcon schedule, including today's match-up with league powerhouse Ball State.

"Any time you really want to win bad and come close but don't win, then that really hurts," said Jim. "But Ball State is going to be tough and we shouldn't have any problem getting up for them."

To characterize Jim Mitolo one needs only to look at a questionnaire Jim once filled out for the athletic department. Under the question "What one thing do you like to do most of all?", Jim answered "Help other people."

As we said before, Jim Mitolo is not your average football player.

Fitzpatrick Makes Successful Transition

by Steve Shutt

John Fitzpatrick will be starting at the outside linebacker post this afternoon against Ball State. But three years ago John might have envisioned himself playing guard.

Basketball guard, that is.

Fitzpatrick came to Bowling Green as a basketball recruit. But after two seasons, John decided that maybe basketball wasn't the sport he should be in.

"Basketball just wasn't working out for me," said Fitzpatrick. "I like the game a lot, but I didn't see it in my future. I was recruited in high school for both basketball and football so I decided to give football a shot."

The Williamsville, New York native decided to walk-on during the spring of '77 and he informed then coach Don Nehlen of his decision.

"The day after I told Nehlen I was coming out, he resigned," Fitzpatrick said. "I don't know if my decision had anything to do with it or not," he chuckled.

Fitzpatrick has been an important part of the Bowling Green defense which has had its good days and its bad. But John feels that the defense will soon be playing more consistently.

"The defense is maturing and we'll be playing better. We have a lot of pride in ourselves but we've been getting some tough breaks, with field position and stuff. We just haven't been playing good football," commented Fitzpatrick.

Following the rough loss to Miami, there was speculation that the Falcons would feel a letdown. But Fitzpatrick does not feel that way.

"Ball State is a good team but they're capable of being beat and we can do it. We just have to keep ourselves up and not get down on ourselves."

Fitzpatrick saw limited action during his first season last year, but a weight training program added 30 pounds to his 6-2 frame and he now plays at 217 as compared to 190 when he was playing basketball.

But this season has been a prosperous one thus far for Fitzpatrick. He leads the team in fumble recoveries with four and also netted his first career interception early in the season.

In addition, he has more than 40 tackles, including a trio for losses amounting to nine yards. His best effort of the season came against Toledo when he was in on nine tackles in BG's 45-27 win over the Rockets in the Glass Bowl. He also had a fine game against Miami with eight stops.

The high point in football was Fitzpatrick's winning of the Most Improved Player award given annually following spring football drills.

"I enjoyed winning the award. It showed somebody noticed me out there," said the senior physical education major.

John's father is a basketball coach back in New York and that is the route that Fitzpatrick would like to follow when he graduates from Bowling Green in June.

"I'd like to find a graduate assistantship in basketball at the college level," said Fitzpatrick.

"I like basketball a great deal and I feel that I know the game better than I know football. I like both sports, but I think I'd enjoy working with basketball a lot more."

John Fitzpatrick has gone from basketball to football with a great deal of success and plans to return to basketball next year. But you can be sure that Denny Stolz is glad that Fitzpatrick wound up an outside linebacker and not basketball guard because John has been one of the steadiest Falcon defenders throughout the season.

Know your candy signals.

Signal for MILKY WAY® Bar.

Signal for SNICKERS® Bar.

Left palm extended, while right hand makes three chopping motions. No matter how you slice it, it comes up peanuts.

Signal for 3 MUSKETEERS® Bar.

Look up and point with three fingers while right hand rubs stomach. It's the fluffy chocolate bar that gives your spirits a lift.

Signal for "M&M's"® Plain Chocolate Candies.

Alternate left palm extended with lifting and pointing to mouth. "The milk chocolate melts in your mouth—not in your hand!"

Signal for "M&M's"® Peanut Chocolate Candies.

Move finger in clockwise motion pointing toward head. Go crazy for the peanut chocolate candies. "The milk chocolate melts in your mouth—not in your hand!"

These candies are on sale in the stadium now.

Today's Visitor — Ball State

Today's meeting between Bowling Green and Ball State looms as a battle between the Falcons offensive strength and the Cardinals defensive strength. Both teams figure prominently in NCAA Division I-A statistics this week.

The Falcons were ranked fourth nationally in total offense with over 435 yards-per-game, while Ball State was ranked number two in total defense (behind Navy) allowing just over 190 yards-per-game. The Cardinals also rank third in rushing defense with an average of 98.6 and seventh in pass defense at 92.2 yards-per-game.

Despite the two recent setbacks, quarterback Mike Wright continues to rank as one of the nation's top offensive performers. The junior from Wellsville ranks fourth in total offense (240.4 YPG) and 17th in passing (13.0 completions-per-game). Wright has now accounted for 1,923 yards and is just 210 yards away from Mark Miller's BG record of 2,133 yards in total offense which he set in 1977 over a 12-game slate.

Lost in the setback to Central Michigan on Saturday was the fact that flanker Jeff Groth set a new BG record for most pass receptions in a career. The Chagrin Falls native has now caught 120 passes in his four-year career and still has an outstanding chance to set three other records this season.

Congratulations are also in order for Groth's selection to the East team for the East-West Shrine game on January 6th of next year at Stanford. The game is one of college football's finest all-star games and pits the top seniors from around the country in what annually is an exciting affair.

Bowling Green will have another homecoming of sorts today with the return of one of its most promising graduates in Ball State head coach Dwight Wallace. A 1966 graduate of Bowling Green and a former captain and quarterback for the Falcons, Wallace has done a commendable job in his first season at the Muncie, Ind., school after four years as an assistant at Colorado under Bill Mallory. He appears to be headed for an outstanding coaching career.

Bowling Green and Ball State have met just four previous times with BG holding a 3-1 lead over the Cardinals. The two last met in 1975 with Ball State posting a come-from-behind 27-20 win over the Falcons in Bowling Green. The Cardinals were coached by Dave McClain, a 1960 graduate of Bowling Green and presently serving as the head man at Wisconsin.

A special welcome to all parents, high school seniors, members of the various industries and BG classified employees in attendance at today's game. All are part of the many promotions that were staged prior to this game. An additional welcome goes to eight-year old Janeen Litton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Litton of 438 North Prospect Street in Bowling Green. Janeen was the winner this week in the Junior Falcon contest.

Just a reminder to BG fans that the Falcons will be away at Southern Mississippi next Saturday night for an 8:30 contest against the Golden Eagles before returning home on Nov. 18th for the season finale with Ohio University.

The New Chevrolet.

America has driven it to the top.

In just two short years over a million people have bought and enjoyed The New Chevrolet Caprice and Impala. Pretty darn impressive.

Of course, one reason for the success of The New Chevrolet is that it's simply a very beautiful car. And we suggest the '79 version is even more beautiful.

You're invited to visit the Chevrolet "Locker Room" exhibit at the National Football Foundation's new College Football Hall of Fame at King's Island (25 miles north of Cincinnati). This unique museum lets you participate in the fascinating history of college football. Don't miss it.

But then we know it takes more than beauty to become the most popular car in America. It takes roominess. It takes some very impressive standard features. It takes a smooth, comfortable ride. And more.

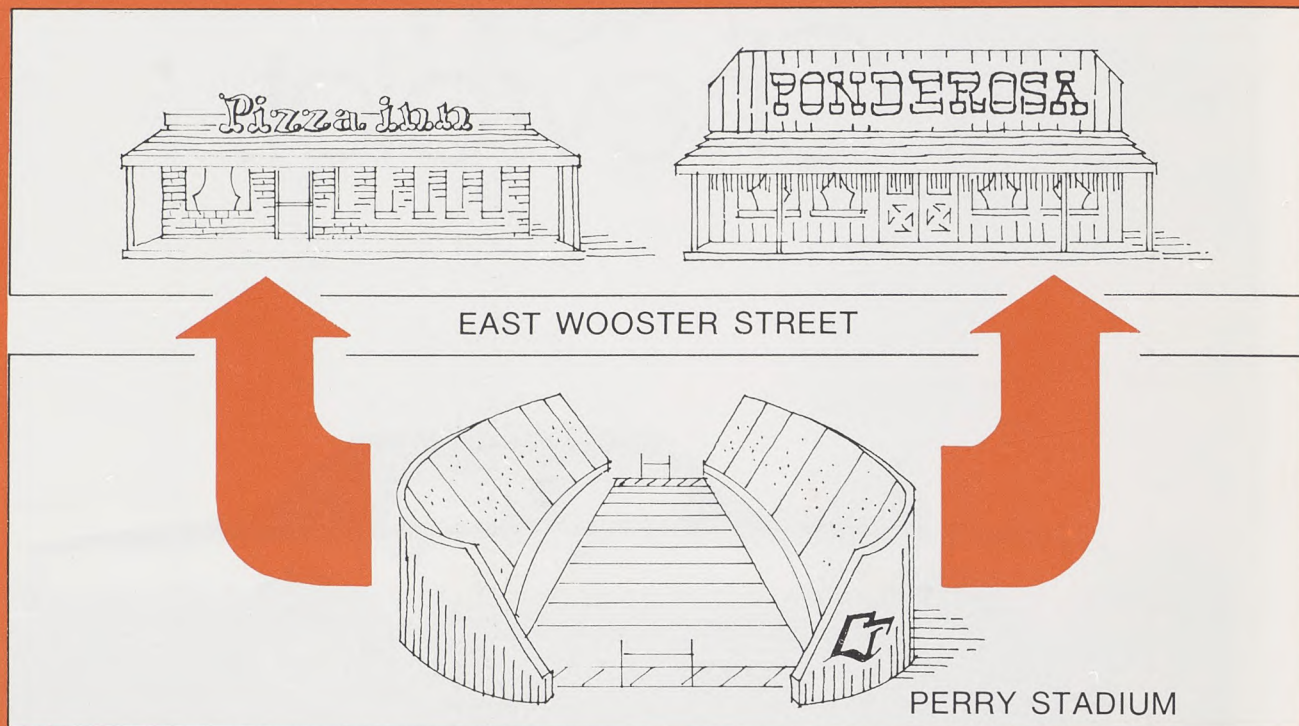

The New Chevrolet for 1979. Pleasing to the eye. Pleasing in lots of other ways, too.

It's no wonder America's driven it to the top. See your Chevrolet dealer.

You decide...pizza or steak, a great play either way.

After the game, you'll want something great. Good Italian food or that all-American favorite, steak. Whatever your goal, just walk across the street. Ponderosa or Pizza Inn. No matter which, you win.

New BGSU Recreation Center To Open In January

The $9.35 million Recreation Center will open whole new avenues of opportunities for students, according to Dr. Richard Eakin, vice provost for student affairs and the man responsible for the well-being of the University's more than 16,000 students when they are not in the classroom.

"A residential university, like Bowling Green, must be able to provide students a social life, cultural life and recreational life in addition to the educational offering," Dr. Eakin said.

The Recreation Center, scheduled to open in January, will be a huge step forward in providing students with new opportunities in recreation as well as social and cultural outlets.

The building itself will be one of the finest indoor facilities of its kind in the state of Ohio. Designed by Thomas T. K. Zung of Cleveland, who was also the architect for the Alumni Center, the massive 185,000 square foot building has a very open design with one activity flowing into another.

The basic structure is formed by two rectangular buildings touching at right angles with two pie-shaped areas in between. The westernmost building houses the Olympic-sized (50 meters long) Samuel M. Cooper Pool. The pool's 25-yard width will permit meets to be held at one end while other activities could possibly continue at the other end. The pool features underwater viewing windows, has one, three, five and seven-and-a-half meter diving stations and a 17-foot depth. The pool area has seating for 1,300 spectators.

Dr. Eakin said the pool will be used by both the men's and women's intercollegiate swim teams, which will be the only intercollegiate use of the facility. "The top priority for this building is student recreation, but from the beginning it's been understood that the swim teams will be the only intercollegiate activity in the Center," Dr. Eakin said.

In September, 1977, the Board of Trustees named the pool in honor of Dr. Samuel M. Cooper, former swimming coach and chairman of the health and physical education department.

The east rectangular building will house the sports center, a huge, multi-purpose area that will accommodate four basketball courts or four tennis courts or combinations of volleyball and badminton courts. The sports center is rimmed by an elevated 190-yard banked running track.

Under the sports center are 14 handball or racquetball courts and three squash courts. The courts are two stories high and have openings along the back wall for viewing. Two of the handball/racquetball courts and one squash court have glass side walls.

Other features in the lower portion of the building include a golf room which will have four driving nets and a combination archery/golf studio that can accommodate seven targets or three golf-driving nets. The studio will also have an astroturf putting surface.

A 42 by 84-foot room is available for dancing or for combative arts such as wrestling, karate or boxing.

A 48 by 104-foot area above and at the east end of the building housing the Cooper Pool can be used as a singles tennis court, a volleyball court or as a tennis-hitting wall. A movable partition separates the room from the main pool area and during large swim meets, extra seating is provided in the room that overlooks the pool.

In addition to intercollegiate swim meets the pool will be used for instruction in health and physical education classes and for recreational swimming. Also, if they can be fit into the schedule, various swim meets, sponsored by outside groups, will be scheduled.

Two meets have already been set for the Cooper Pool next winter and spring, including the Northwest Ohio High School Women's Districts and the Women's State Intercollegiate Swim Meet.

In the pie-shaped section forming the rear of the building is the club swimming pool, which is 50 by 25-feet in size and will be used primarily for recreation. The pool is specially designed and equipped to accommodate handicapped persons. A three-tier sun deck is being built outside the entrance doors to the club pool which is on the lower level. The pool is expected to be popular with groups wanting to have swimming parties.

The pie-shaped area in front of the building contains the activities center, which will be available for students wanting to participate in pick-up basketball games, table tennis and other activities. Groups such as the Pommerettes can use the space to practice their routines.

The activities center is adjacent to the main entrance which features a huge status board that gives a quick rundown on the availability of courts and other facilities. The status board will be updated every half-hour. The entrance area is decorated with rough, sawed wood walls that have observation windows overlooking the pool and into the sports center.

A circular stairway leads from the main entrance area to a mezzanine which also overlooks the main pool as well as the activities center. Students can participate in a variety of machine games such as bumper pool, pool, football, air hockey, pinball and shuffleboard. There will also be vending machines for snacks.

The building has two exercise rooms, one for men, the other for women, which will contain a wide range of weight and exercise equipment. Also, there will be two locker rooms, each with 800 lockers, and saunas.

In addition to office space, there will be a pro shop where Center users can purchase various types of equipment and clothing.

R. J. (Ben) McGuire, the Director of Recreation at Bowling Green, checks progress on the university's new $9.35 million recreation center. The structure is scheduled to open for student use in January. McGuire will be in charge of the center.

Adding to thy fame.

Time will treat you kindly
Years from now you'll be
Ever dearer in our hearts,
Our University.

From your halls of ivy
To the campus scene,
Chimes ring out with gladness
From our dear Bowling Green.

When all is just a mem'ry
Of the by-gone days,
Hear our hymn dear Alma Mater
As thy name we praise.

Ball State University

The University

Ball State University as a state institution was founded in 1918, but its antecedents date to the late nineteenth century.

In 1898 a private school, the Eastern Indiana Normal University, was established on ten acres of the present Ball State campus. It was succeeded by three other private schools, Palmer University, Indiana Normal School and Muncie Normal Institute.

The Ball brothers of Muncie, a prominent industrial family, donated to the state of Indiana in 1918 the previously purchased campus and buildings of the Muncie Normal Institute. The State transferred custody of the school to the Board of Trustees of Indiana State Normal School at Terre Haute, and the new institution was named the Indiana State Normal School, Eastern Division.

In 1922, in recognition of the beneficence of the Ball brothers, the Board of Trustees gave the school the additional title of Ball Teachers College. An act of the General Assembly in 1929 separated the two institutions and gave the name Ball State Teachers College to the school at Muncie.

On February 8, 1965, the General Assembly renamed the institution Ball State University in recognition of its phenomenal growth in enrollment, in physical facilities, and in the variety and quality of its educational programs and services, and also in anticipation of the much broader role it would be expected to assume in the future.

Ball State University is located in Muncie, a city with a population of approximately 85,000. Muncie, 56 miles northeast of Indianapolis, the state capital, is midway north and south in the eastern half of Indiana.

Situated in a residential area about one mile northwest of the business center of the city, the 928-acre campus reflects a harmony of past and present. Tudor Gothic is the prevailing architectural style of the older, ivy-clad buildings shaded by native trees. More recently constructed buildings are in contemporary, functional design.

ABC Sports College Football Quiz

Prepared by STEVE FLEMING and DONN BERNSTEIN

(The first season that college football was televised was in 1952 (NBC). The American Broadcasting Company acquired the NCAA package in 1954, picked it up again in 1960-61 and has been the network of college football every year since 1966. The following questions are derived from ABC's previous 15 seasons of NCAA football telecasts.)

1. ABC carried its first college football game on Sept. 18, 1954. Who played and who won? _____.

2. Two teams were crowned national champions in 1954. Ohio State was one; who was the other? _____. This "other" team went undefeated (9-0), yet did not go to a postseason bowl game. Why? _____.

3. ABC's viewing audience was treated to some of the most dynamic running backs in college football history during the 1954 season. Who was starring for Ohio State? _____; Wisconsin? _____; and Rice? _____. The Wisconsin and Rice players faced each other in a nationally televised game on Oct. 9th.

4. Notre Dame first appeared on the ABC Television Network against Southern Methodist in a nationally televised game on Dec. 4, 1954. Who was the Irish's new head coach that year? _____ and who quarterbacked the team? _____.

SMU had an unheralded receiver (who caught 14 passes for 217 yards during the season) who went on to greatness in the pros; who was he? _____.

5. USC boosted its Rose Bowl hopes in a game carried over ABC on October 16, 1954 with a 24-14 victory over Oregon. Who was the Trojan running star who led the way with three touchdown runs? _____. And who was an assistant on Oregon coach Len Casanova's staff who later was to become significant in USC football? _____.

6. ABC's first bowl telecast was on Jan. 1, 1955 when Navy blanked Mississippi, 21-0, in the Sugar Bowl. The Midshipmen were led by fullback Joe Gattuso who rushed for 111 yards and scored two touchdowns. Who quarterbacked this Middie team, led the nation in passing in 1955 and went on to coach at the Naval Academy? ____.

7. Roone Arledge, President of ABC News and Sports, joined ABC in 1960 and produced the first college football game of that season between Alabama and Georgia. Who was the Georgia QB that year? ____.

8. During ABC's coverage of college football during 1960 and 1961, the cameras captured the color and excitement of a pair of backs playing for Navy and Syracuse. Each man went on to win the Heisman Trophy. Who were they? ____.

9. There were only two teams which were undefeated and untied in 1960. New Mexico State (10-0) was one; who was the other which appeared on ABC's television schedule that year? _____. Neither of these two teams were ranked on the wire services top ten lists nor did they go to a major bowl. Who did win the national title in 1960? _____.

10. Only three NCAA member institutions have been on television every year since college football was first telecast in 1952. Notre Dame is one of these schools; who are the other two? _____.

11. Two schools have appeared on television every year since 1952 with the exception of one season when each had losing records. Which are the two schools and what was the year? _____.

12. ABC Sports televised the last Orange Bowl game played in daylight on January 1, 1964 when Nebraska upset favored Auburn, 13-7. Who was the Cornhusker quarterback who ran 68 yards for a touchdown on the second play from scrimmage to key the Nebraska victory? _____.

1. Oklahoma 27, California 13. Sooner halfback Buddy Leake passed for the second Oklahoma touchdown and scored the third on a two-yard run.
2. UCLA. Although UCLA went 9-0 and won the Pacific Coast Conference championship (including a 34-0 victory over USC), the Trojans went to the Rose Bowl because UCLA had gone the year before and a rule at that time did not allow a Pacific Coast team to go to the Rose Bowl two years in a row.
3. Howard Cassady for Ohio State; Alan Ameche for Wisconsin and Dicky Moegle for Rice. The Badgers defeated Rice, 13-7, in this national telecast.
4. Terry Brennan was Notre Dame's new head coach and Ralph Guglielmi quarterbacked the team. The SMU receiver was Raymond Berry.
5. Jon Arnett was the running back and Oregon aide John McKay went on to national distinction at USC. George Welsh, Teammate Gattuso's son, Joe Jr., was a senior on last year's Navy team, led the team in rushing and was ranked 13th nationally (118.1 yds. per game).
7. Fran Tarkenton was the Georgia QB.
8. Joe Bellino (Navy), the 1960 Heisman Trophy winner and Ernie Davis (Syracuse), who won the coveted trophy in 1961.
9. Yale was undefeated in 1960 (9-0) and Minnesota won the national championship (8-1 regular season record).
10. Army and Navy.
11. Michigan and Ohio State didn't appear on TV during the 1959 season. The Wolverines had a 4-5-0 mark; the Buckeyes went 3-5-1.
12. Dennis Claridge.

QUIZ ANSWERS

Falcon Athletes Have Another Impressive Year

Bowling Green continued to display a well-rounded sports program on the state, regional and national level in 1977-78 with some outstanding efforts by many of the Falcons' men's and women's teams.

Boasting the largest total sports program in the Mid-American Conference and one of the most extensive in the nation (24 sports), Bowling Green compiled its third best overall season ever in 1977-78 with a winning percentage of .606. Only a .630 mark in 1975-76 and a .618 ledger in 1973-74 bettered last year's effort.

Highlight of the 1977-78 sports year was the hockey team's third place finish in the NCAA playoffs in Providence, R.I. Coach Ron Mason's skaters captured the CCHA regular-season and playoff crowns and then bested Colorado College in the NCAA Midwest Regional Championship.

In addition to the hockey team's performance, the BG men's golf team, by winning the MAC, earned a trip to the NCAA Tournament at the University of Oregon and various members of the other men's and women's teams earned trips to national championship.

Championships garnered by Bowling Green teams during the campaign were by the men's golf team (MAC), the women's swimming team (state title) and women's track (state title). Runner-up performances were achieved by the men's cross country team in the MAC and the women's gymnastics in the state. The women's synchronized swim team placed sixth at the nationals.

Both the men's and women's teams showed marked improvement over the previous year. The men upped their winning percentage to .650 which was the highest in the 1970's, while an increased emphasis in the women's program produced a .548 mark to better the .511 record of 1976-77.

The Falcons tied for second in the MAC All-Sports Reese Trophy competition with a winning percentage of .602. This marked the third time in the 1970's that the school had reached that percentage. The Falcons had overall winning records against all but one of the league schools and showed an improved won-lost record against seven league institutions.

From a fiscal standpoint, the athletic's allocation of better than $1.6 million is divided with the administrative and non-revenue areas funded by the general fees paid by students. The revenue-sports division is funded by gate receipts and income from concessions, parking, programs, guarantees, etc. Additional monies to help pay athletic grants-in-aid and recruiting expenditures are raised from private contributions made to the Falcon Club.

In addition to administration of the intercollegiate program, the athletic department is directly involved with both the educational and public service areas of the University.

The department supervises the University's 18-hole golf course, the Ice Arena and all of the athletic fields and facilities at the University. Through contact with club teams and an extensive intramural program, the department helped provide services to more than 16,000 participants last year.

Various local, state and national organizations made use of BG's modern facilities for several events and the department also helped in the University's total public service program.

The athletic program also embraces the department of health and physical education and recreation with service courses open to all students.

Following is a brief look at the recent history and current status of Bowling Green's 24 varsity teams:

BASEBALL — During the past seven seasons, the Falcons have won 201 games while losing 123. In four of the last five campaigns, Bowling Green has taken 30 or more victories per season and has averaged 29 victories per year since head coach Don Purvis took over in 1972. Each of the last two seasons has produced a Division I All-American as MAC home run king Larry Owen was honored in 1977 and Chuck Black was selected in 1978. The '79 season looks promising as the Falcons will face Ohio State, Univ. of Michigan, Notre Dame and Miami of Florida in addition to the traditional MAC foes. The past two seasons have seen seven Falcons sign professional baseball contracts.

BASKETBALL — The dynamic John Weinert enters his third year of coaching at Bowling Green with his best prospects yet, and BG having a string of six first-division league finishes in the last seven years. The Falcon's rich basketball tradition includes six NIT appearances, five NCAA tournaments and four MAC titles. The 1978-79 schedule lists such powers as Marquette, Loyola and Duquesne. The women's team has finished second three times and fourth twice in seven Ohio state championships, and enters the new season under coach Kathy Bole.

CROSS-COUNTRY — Coach Mel Brodt's squads have racked up an impressive 110-35 mark during his 18 years at the helm and the BG runners annually rank among the best in the Midwest. BG has had 20 winning seasons in 22 years and four top-10 finishes nationally since 1969. The women's teams continues to shine with a ninth place finish in last year's AIAW meet and a sixth place finish in the Midwest Championships.

FIELD HOCKEY — Under new coach Pat Brett and with an increased emphasis in the program, the team should start reaping the benefits this season after a couple of hard-luck seasons. The 1977 squad held four opponents scoreless and limited four others to a single tally.

FOOTBALL — Coach Denny Stolz will be in his second year as the Falcon's head coach with some solid returnees and an exceptional freshman class as he looks to lead the Falcons to their 22nd winning season in the last 24 years. That winning tradition placed Bowling Green among the top 25 winningest teams in major-college football. An appearance in the nation's top 20 (19th) in 1973 and "big-game" victories over Purdue, Syracuse (twice) and Brigham Young highlight the 70's. Future games are booked with Iowa State, Kentucky, Michigan State, Baylor, Washington, North Carolina, Oregon State, Arizona and Brigham Young.

GOLF — Twelve tournament championships in the last seven years and consistent "top five" finishes gives the men's teams one of the best records in the Midwest. The 1978 team captured the MAC title for the third time in the 70's and ranked 25th in the NCAA's. The men have cracked the nation's top 30 on three occasions thanks in part to being able to prep on the University's own 18-hole course. The women's team has been a consistent contender in most tournaments in the Midwest and won the state title in 1974.

GYMNASTICS — One of the fastest rising BG programs from the standpoint of spectator interest and competitive skill, the women's team placed second in the last four state championships and was seventh in the Midwest meet last year while rolling up a fine 14-1 slate.

HOCKEY — Just a varsity sport at BG for nine years, the Falcons have quickly become one of the nation's top collegiate teams. The skaters were third in the 1978 NCAA Championships after finishing fifth in 1977. Coach Ron Mason's team has been ranked in the top ten the last four seasons and the Falcons have compiled an outstanding 191-110-12 record in the nine seasons of their existence. Capacity crowds at the 3,000 seat BGSU Ice Arena are a common sight.

LACROSSE — In the last five years, the men's team has a 51-10 record which ranks as one of the best in the nation. Three Midwest championships and an 118-33 record in 13 years of varsity play are on the books. The powerful women's team claimed the 1975 Midwest crown and is 27-11-4 for the last three years.

SOCCER — In four of the last six years, BG has been ranked as one of the four top teams in Ohio. NCAA tournament appearances in 1972 and 1973 highlight the 1970's.

SWIMMING — With a new Olympic-sized swimming pool near completion on campus, BG's swimming fortunes should take a big step upwards. The women's team has claimed five straight state titles and finished in the top 35 teams at the national meet in two of the last five years. The men's team continues to set new records as it prepares to move into the new facility.

TENNIS — The men's squad has captured four first-division MAC finishes in the last five seasons and rolled to a 21-7 record in 1977 along with a tie for third place in the championships. The women's team finished in a similar spot in the Ohio Large College Tournament and boasts a 31-7 record in the last four years.

TRACK — The men's program has attracted national attention thanks to such figures as Olympic gold medalist Dave Wottle, record-setting steeplechaser Sid Sink and the team's second place finish at the 1972 NCAA Indoor Championships. The strong women's program has won three consecutive Ohio championships and two straight Mid-American Invitationals.

VOLLEYBALL — Consistently one of the best teams in the state, the varsity was fifth in the last two state tournaments and had an impressive 18-7 record in 1977.

WRESTLING — With 21 non-losing seasons in the last 24 years, the Falcons have garnered three MAC titles and produced 15 individual champions in the last two decades.
